

Alvis Drift Rondesbosch Chenin Blanc 2023

Region

The Worcester wine region is South Africa's largest and highest producing region, it is located 100km or a one and a half hours drive east of Cape Town. The district is sheltered by mountain ranges on every side creating a rain shadow that causes the area to be particularly hot and dry meaning irrigation is essential here, locals source this water from the nearby Brandvlei Dam. There are varying styles in the district due to the topographical variations, most grapes are grown in the gently rolling, more fertile valley floor, where the higher quality grapes are typically made from vineyards on the surrounding slopes, here the soils are better draining and suit lower yielding vines.

Producer

The Alvi's Drift estate, based in the Breede River valley, is named after a bridge that was built across the river, which was commissioned in 1928 by the family as a means for the locals to cross safely. The estate's founder Albertus Viljoen 'Oupa Alvi' notoriously scored the Springboks first try against the All Blacks on African soil. Today, his grandson Alvi van der Merwe is the winemaker and long side the vineyards, cultivated the land for fruit orchards and livestock herds, both dairy and free-roaming game. The family is committed to sustainability, giving back to the land, but also going beyond farming practices, helping local communities wherever possible, as this is fundamental to their values.

Tasting Notes

The wine has a pale straw colour and is star bright. A fresh, inviting fruity nose, with aromas of peach, apricot and orange peel. A gentle hint of honey weaves through the fruit on a well rounded, silky palate. The zippy acids and beautiful lingering citrus fruit give a refreshing finish.

Food

This fresh Chenin Blanc will pair well with light fish and seafood dishes, such as crab salads, ceviche and sushi.
